MARION A. ZIONCHECK

VISUAL ARCHIVE — VOLUME 1

Primary Documents, Death Certificates & Forensic Analysis

Death certificates, marriage cert, biomechanical study, death scene photos

18 images in this volume

—Daily News Photo.

and J. EDGAR HOOVER, chief of the the federal building from the airport, meraman at the 5th st. entrance of the to a prison pallor. Hoover, serving as t"

OVER

* *

—

when our car sta-of the driveway ore Karpis could alongside of him e car poked their without a murmur and Mr. and Mrs.
ut of the car with e their heads.
ed and stammered.
Hoover. I recogsailfish picture I a Florida paper,' iates.

plane ride to St. ngratulated him on own in that picture. back, he read with Louis a copy of a ing the story of his

Zioncheck Arrested For 3d Time In 2 Weeks

SHALLOTTE, N. C., May 2.—(INS)—Rep. Marion A. (Barney Oldfield) Zioncheck, playboy legislator from the state of Washington, was arrested for speeding 70 miles an hour on the coastal highway near here today.

This marks the third time in exactly two weeks that Zioncheck, who married Rubye Nix a few days ago in the capital, has fallen into the toils of the law.

Sheriff Jasper A. Russ nabbed the speeding honeymooners a few moments after hearing via radio that Zioncheck had forfeited $200 bail, furnished by a bondsman following the congressman's last brush with the authorities in Alexandria, Va.

Zioncheck was assessed a small fine and released.

Gen. Hagood Takes Comamnd.

CHICAGO, May 2.—(UP)—Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood assumed command of the 6th corps area roar ried vant huge 109th tiona of m Maj.

the for t Th liner' fully ed in gone brief side. specta concl imme was and p firmly in by gun m Nati hanga agents

Bars

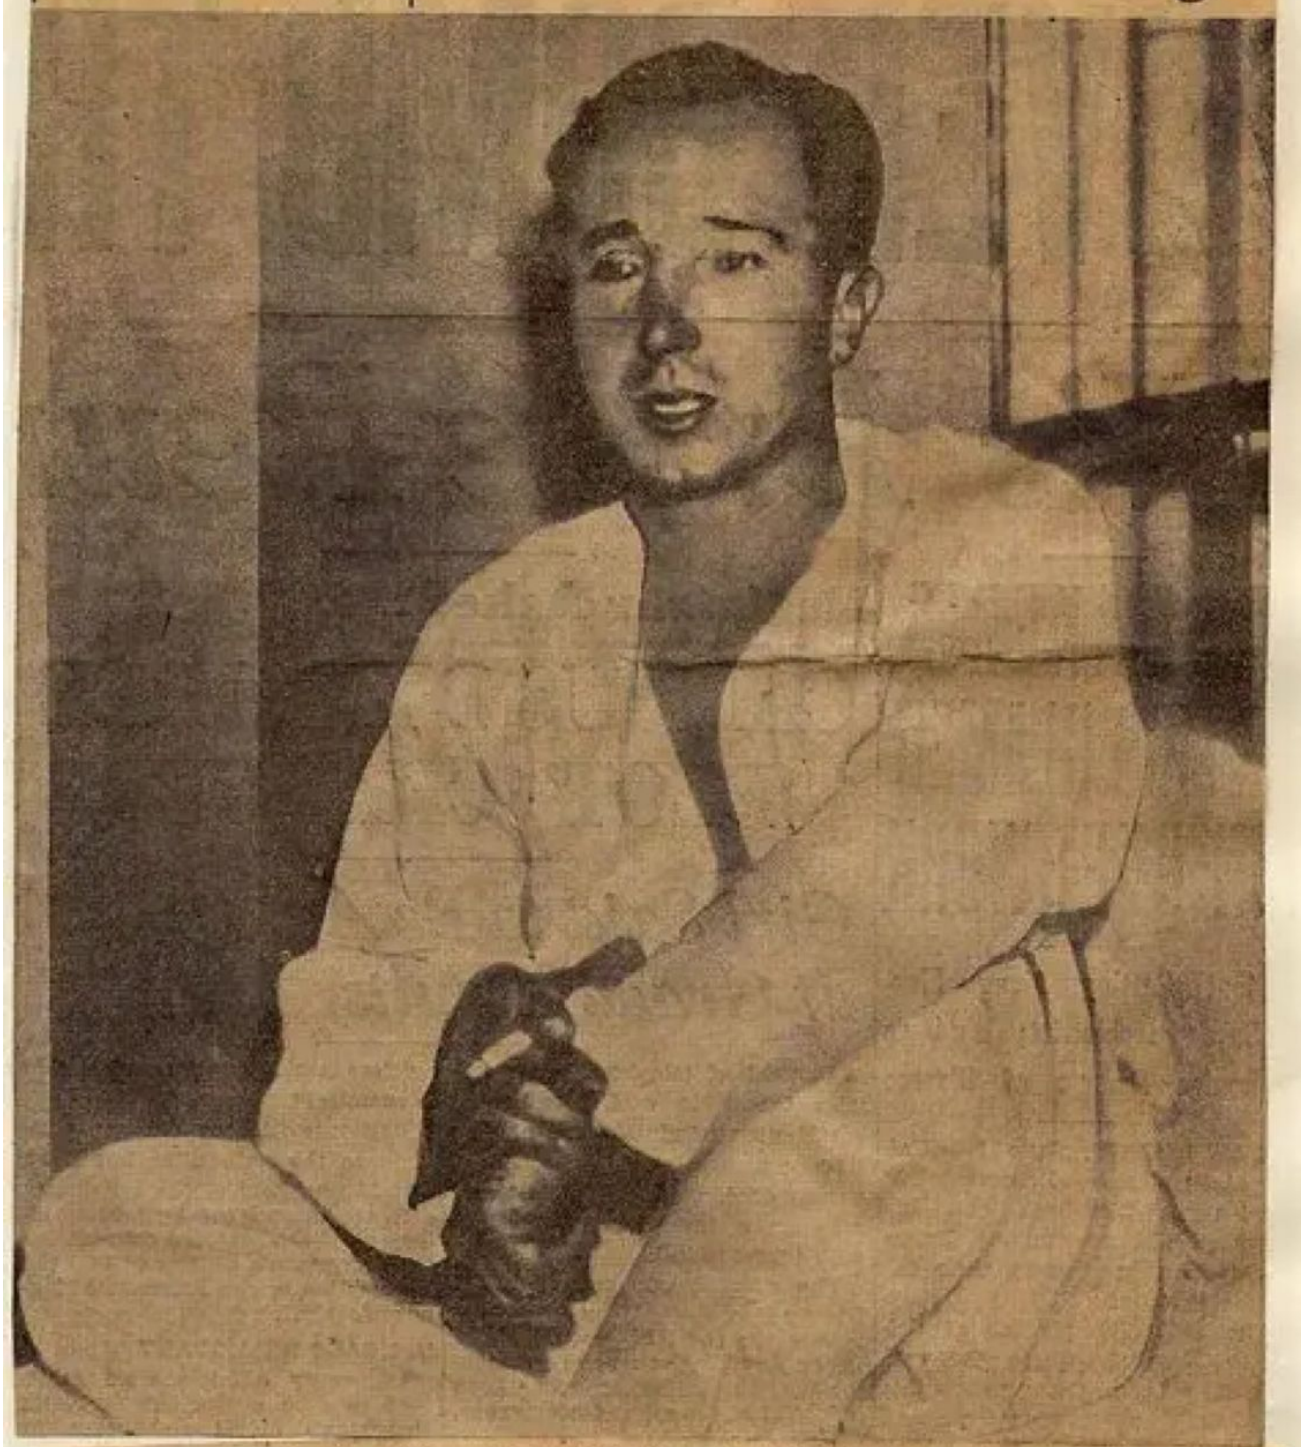

"Sor
"There
days.
The men o one o protruc dows, o tal We cheerily

ZIONCHECK BEING HELD FOR OBSERVATION

Too Much Work

OR WAS IT

Too Much Play?

REPRESENTATIVE ZIONCHECK IN PSYCHOPATHIC WARD

The Strain Was Too Great—Both for the Congressman and the Capital

—(Sound Photo by International News Photograph Service.)

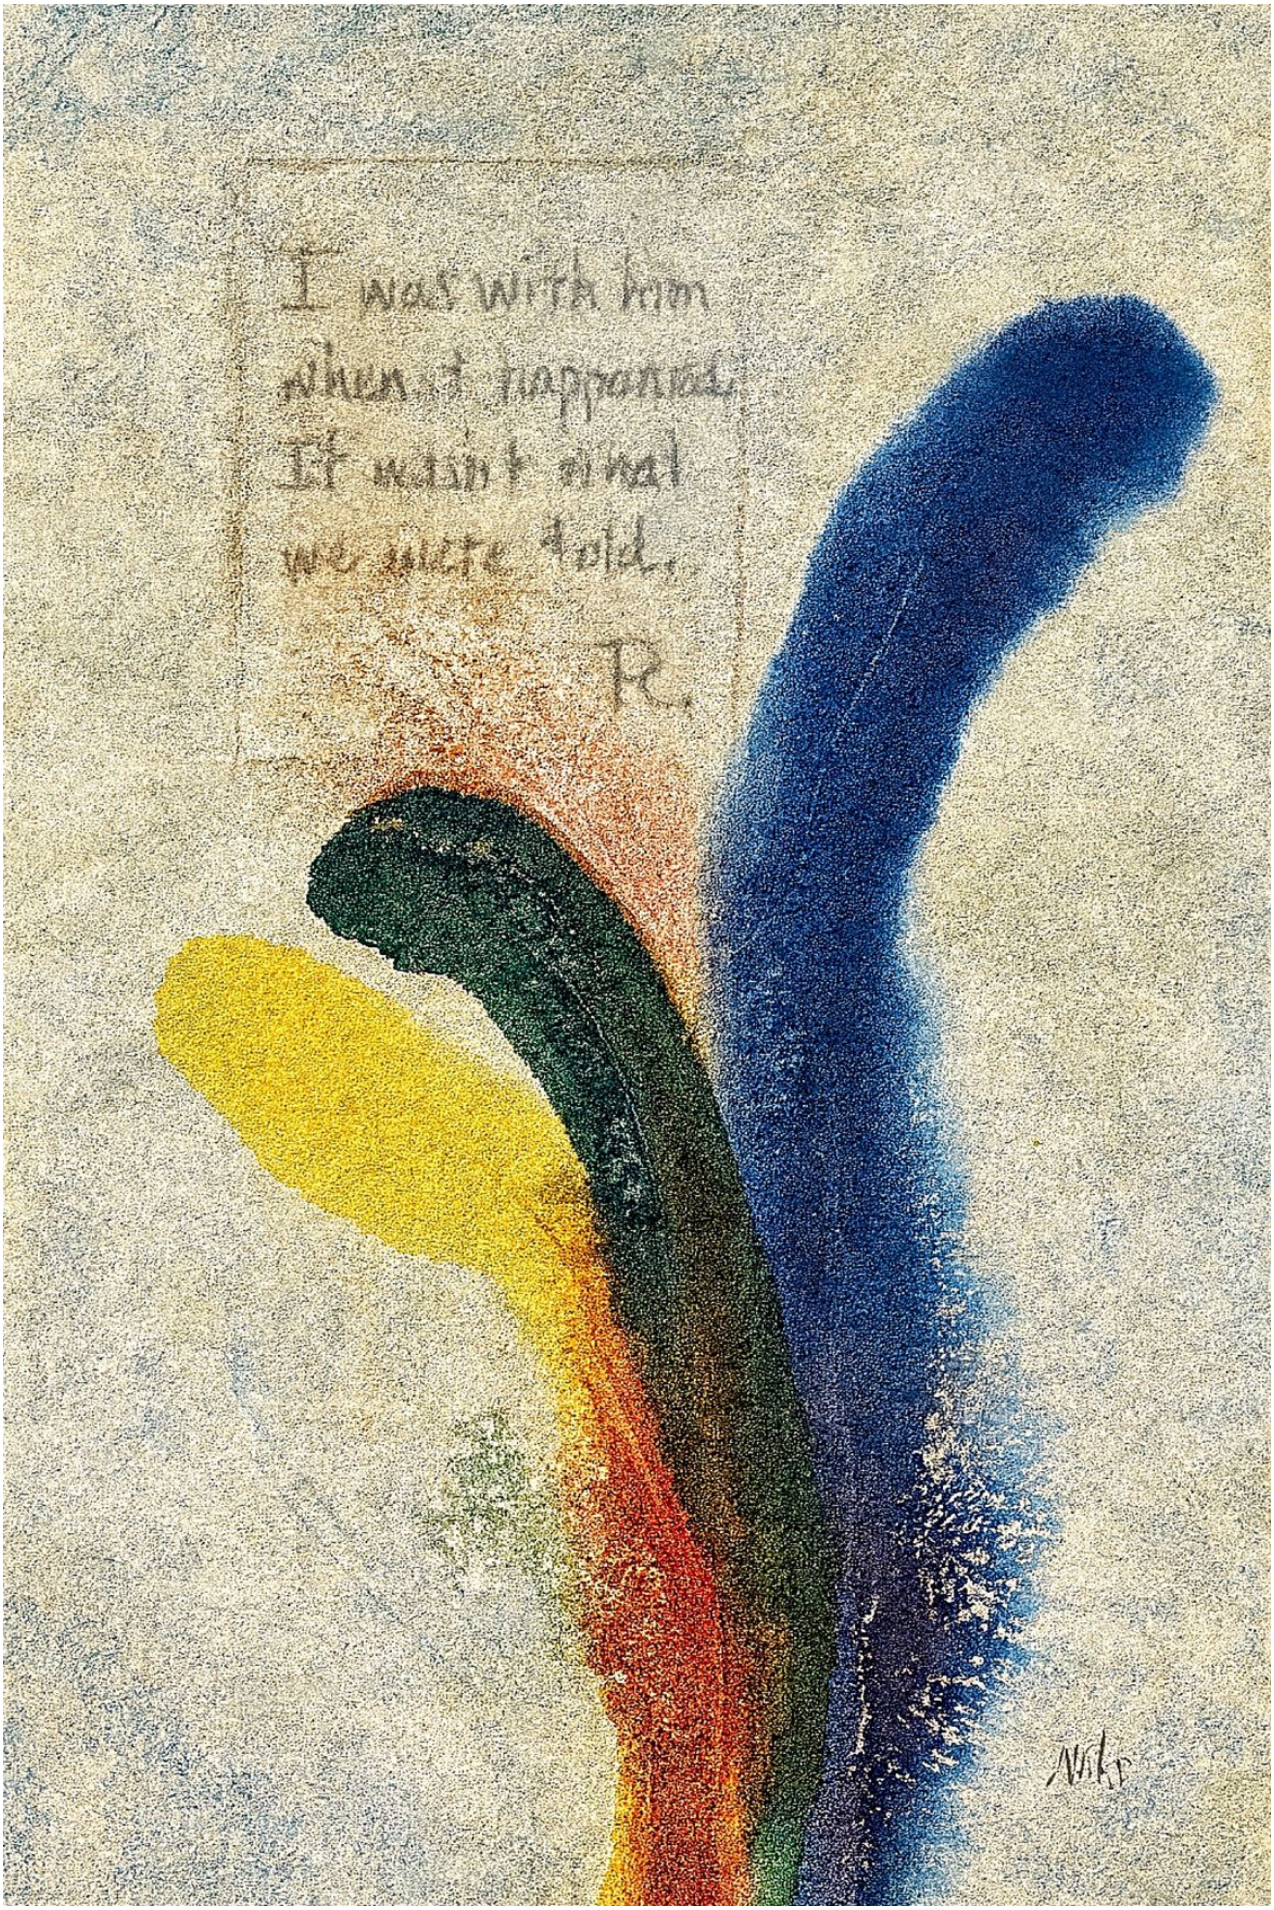

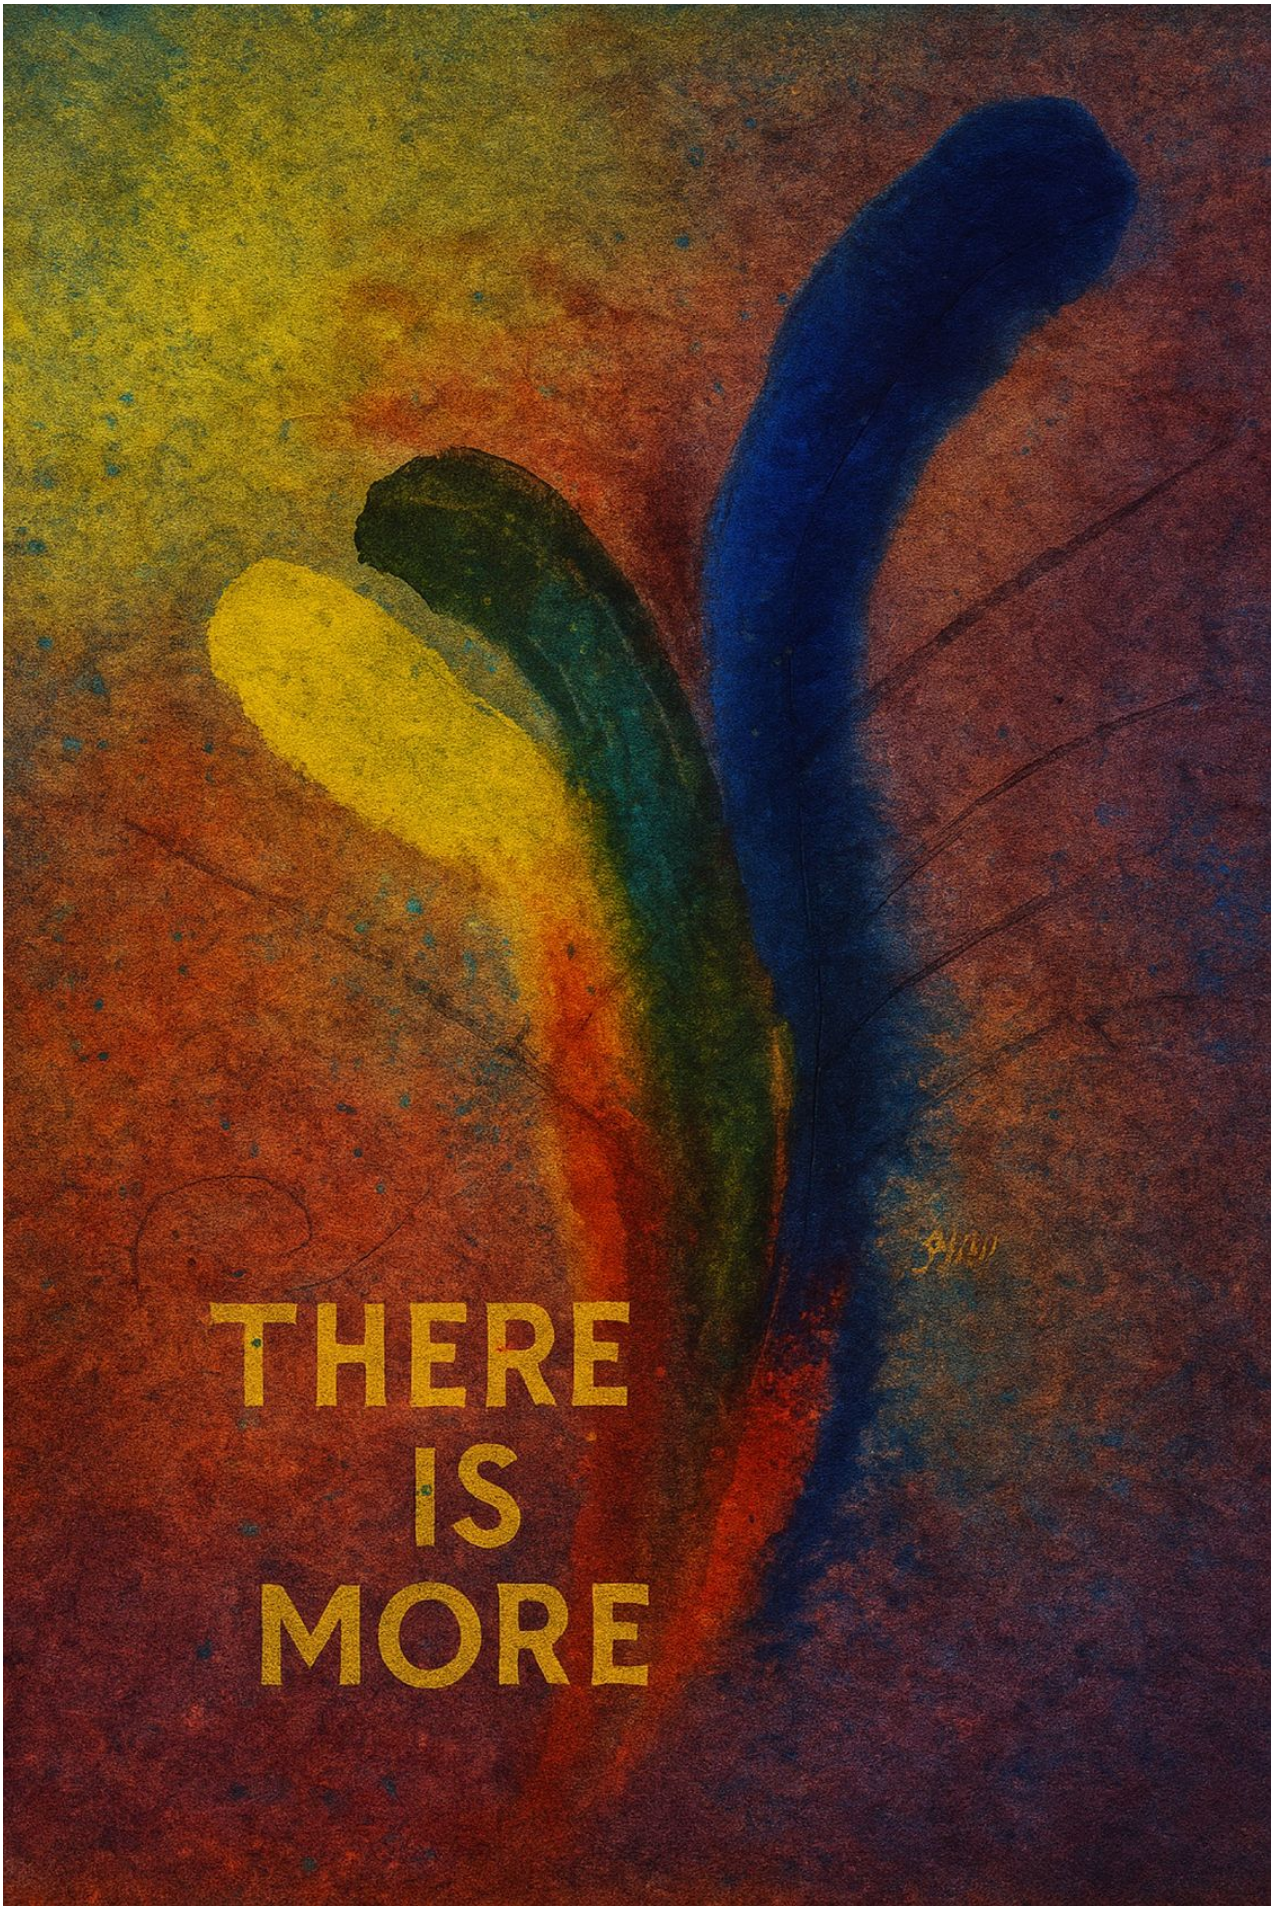

In this rare photograph of Representative Marion Zioncheck on the defensive, the playb man from Seattle is pictured in bed at Gallinger hospital in Washington, D. C., after physic was "suffering from overwork," and prescribed rest. His enforced stay at the hospital, wh held for observation, punctuated five months of antics. He was jailed five times, married, to honeymoon, allegedly ejected his landlady from his capital apartment, tried to enlist the a dent Roosevelt in locating his missing bride, and sought the arrest of Vice President Garne of "conspiracy" to detain her.

PLAYBOY SUBDUED AFTER BATTLE

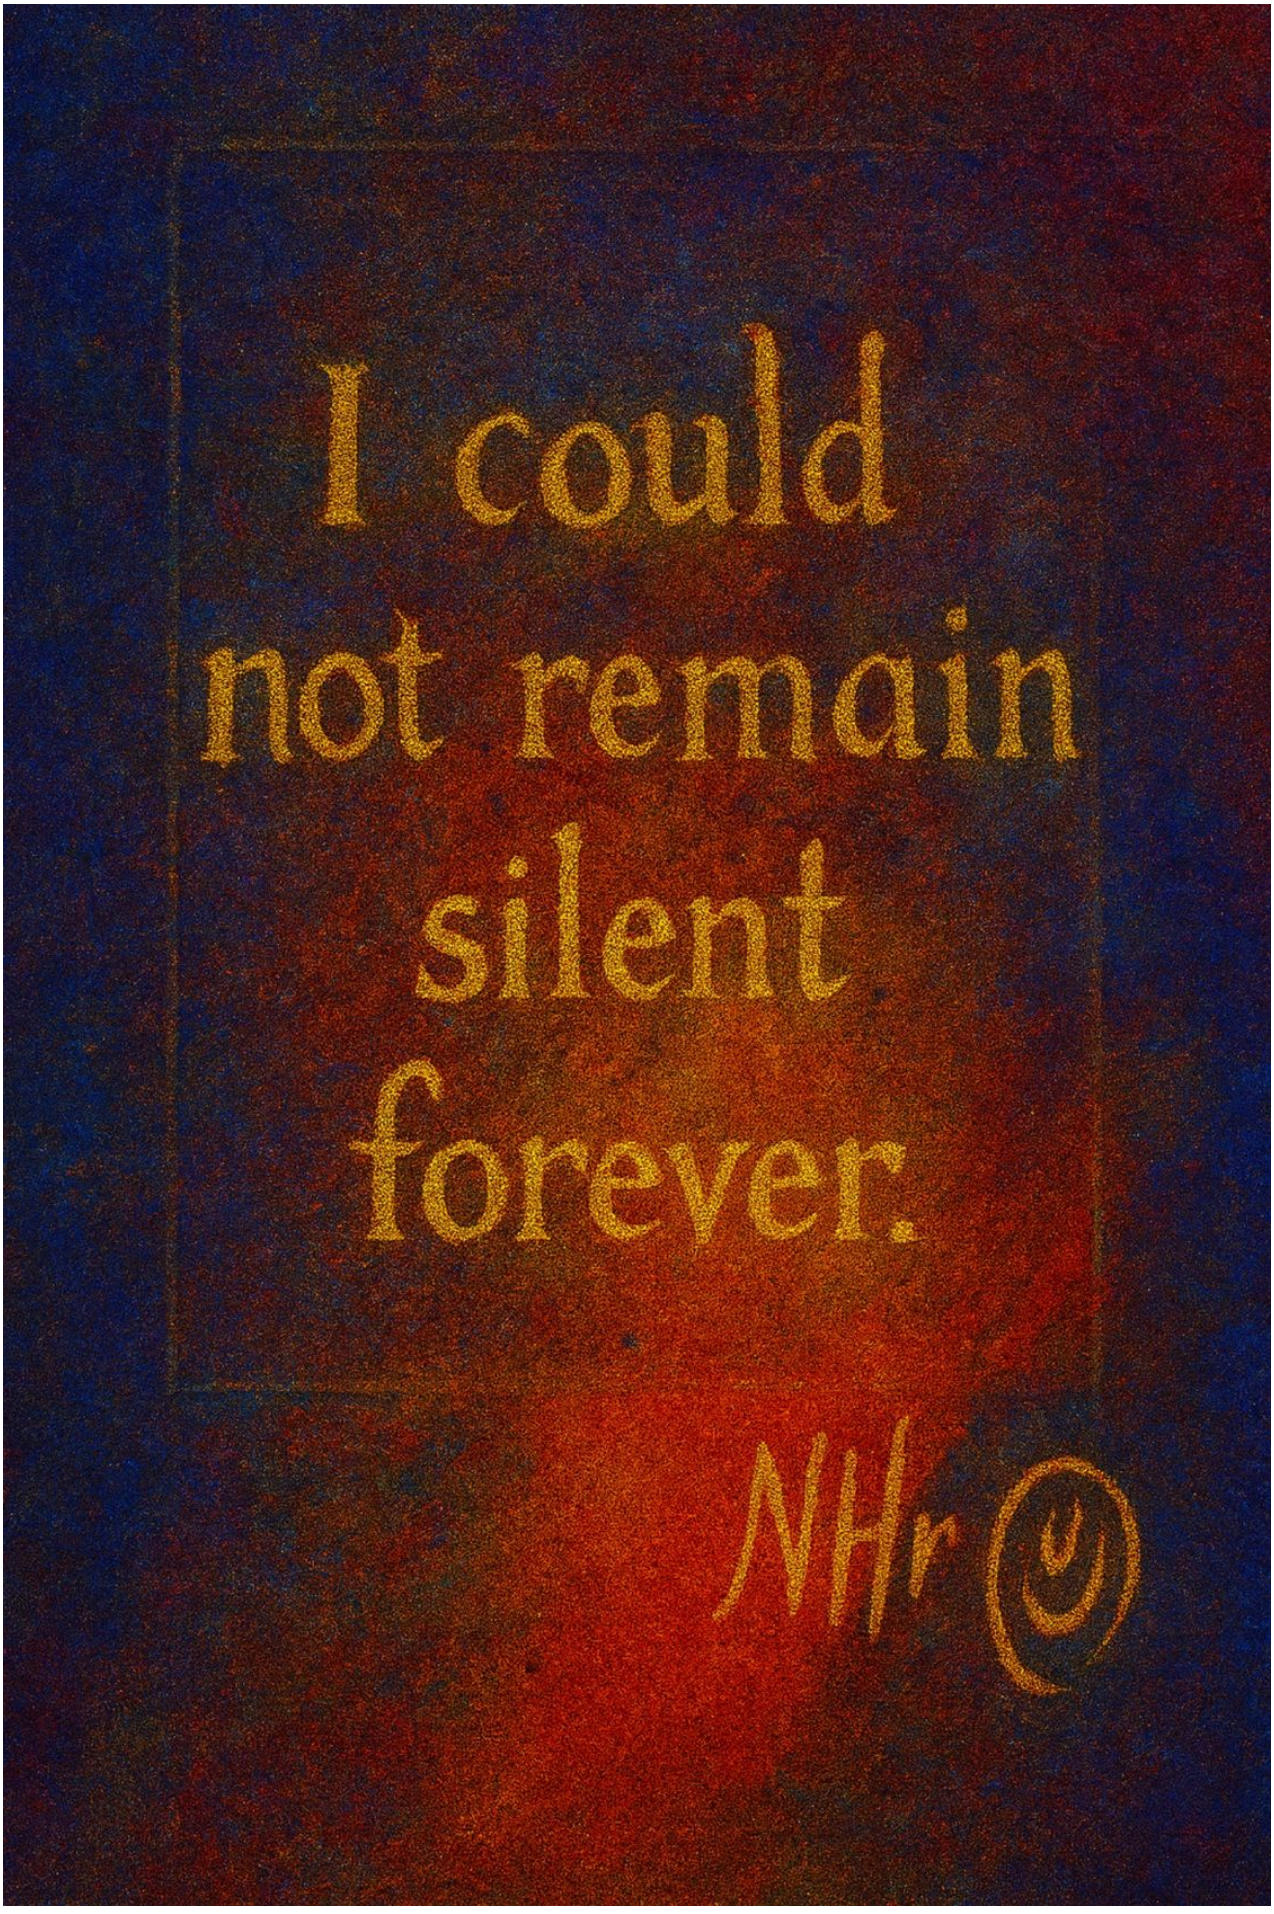

REPRESENTATIVE MARION ZIONCHECK FOLLOWING FURIOUS STRUGGLE
Row in Apartment Too Much for National Capital

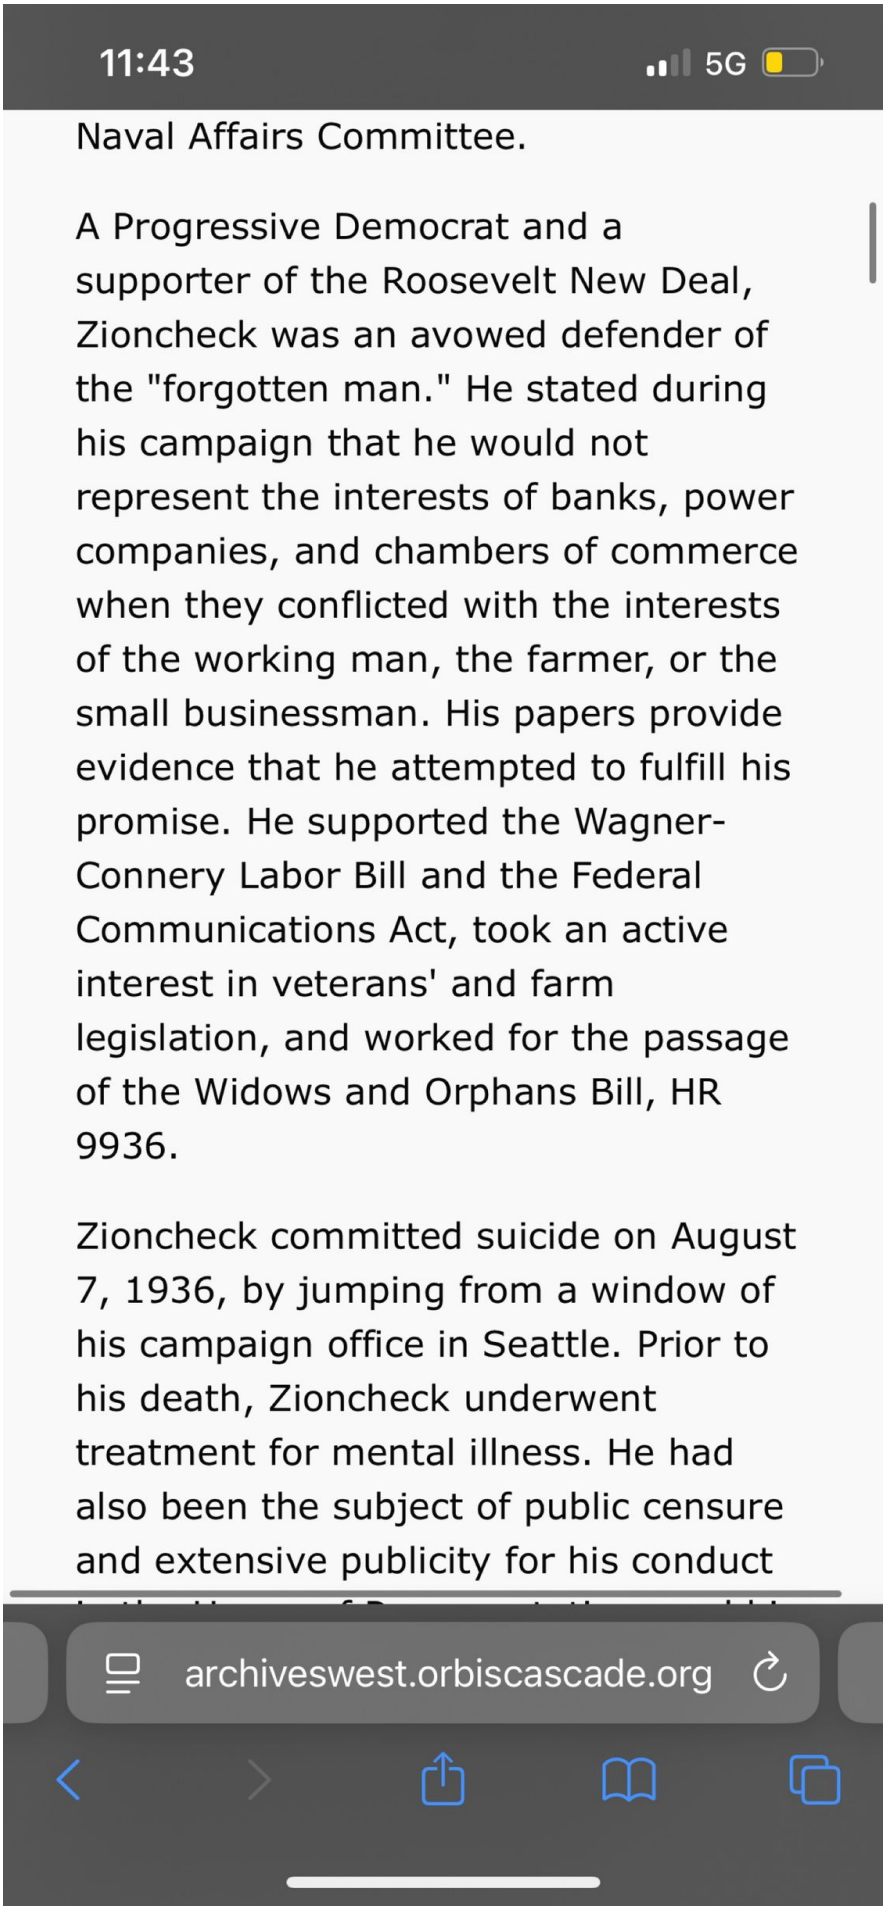

I was with him
when it happened.
It wasn't what we were told.
R.

THERE IS MORE

(8FX)SEATTLE,WASH.,NOV.4--SMILE OF VICTORY--COUNTY PROSECUTOR WARREN G. MAGNUSON (ABOVE) SMILES AT THE NEWS OF HIS ELECTION TO SUCCEED HIS FRIEND, THE LATE MARION ZIONCHECK, IN CONGRESS AS REPRESENTATIVE OF THE FIRST (SEATTLE) CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT. HE WAS SWEPT INTO OFFICE ON A SURGING TIDE OF DEMOCRATIC VOTES. (OTB41735PCW) 1936

I could not remain silent forever.
NHr

11:43
5G
Naval Affairs Committee.
A Progressive Democrat and a supporter of the Roosevelt New Deal, Zioncheck was an avowed defender of the "forgotten man." He stated during his campaign that he would not represent the interests of banks, power companies, and chambers of commerce when they conflicted with the interests of the working man, the farmer, or the small businessman. His papers provide evidence that he attempted to fulfill his promise. He supported the Wagner-Connery Labor Bill and the Federal Communications Act, took an active interest in veterans' and farm legislation, and worked for the passage of the Widows and Orphans Bill, HR 9936.
Zioncheck committed suicide on August 7, 1936, by jumping from a window of his campaign office in Seattle. Prior to his death, Zioncheck underwent treatment for mental illness. He had also been the subject of public censure and extensive publicity for his conduct archiveswest.orbiscascade.org

12:15 5G

Zioncheck Is Called . "Casualty In a War"

SEATTLE, Aug. 12. (AP)—Near collapse, Mrs. Rubye Louise Nix Zioncheck, who saw her congressman husband, Marion A. Zioncheck leap five stories to his death last week, had to be removed from a downtown auditorium during his funeral Tuesday.

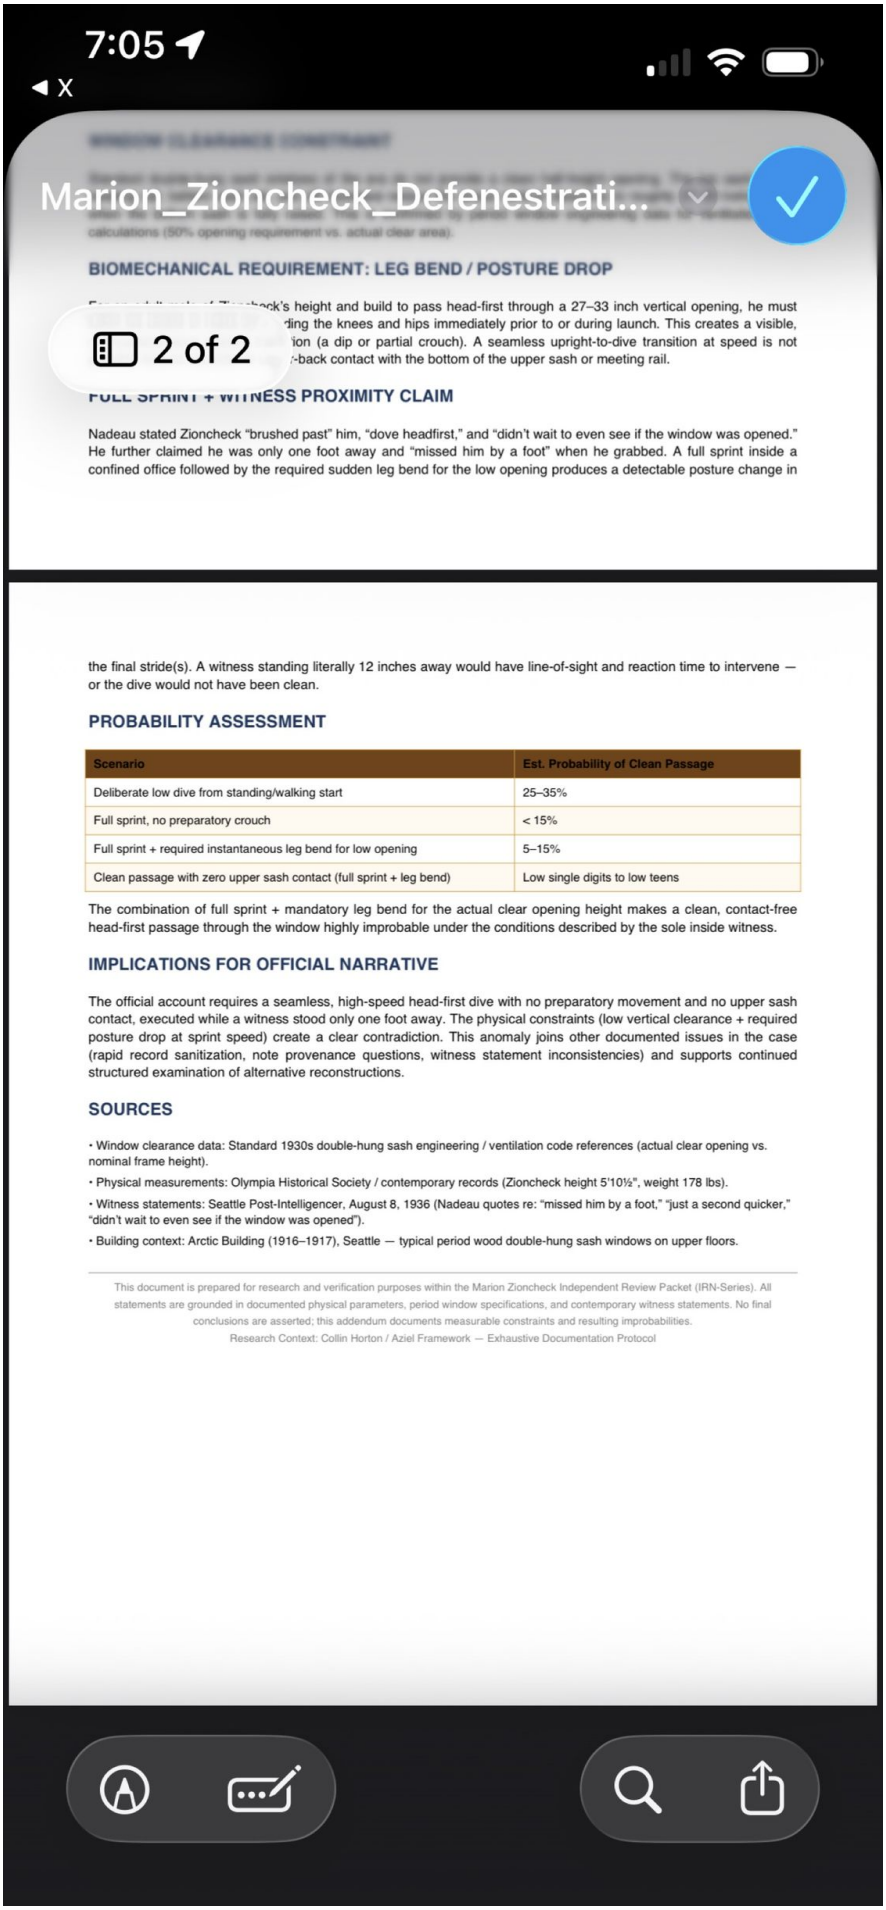

The former Texas girl was escorted from the building by Coroner Otto H. Mittelstadt and waited in a curtained limousine until the religious services ended. Again, at the graveside of the congressman during a brief commitment ceremony, the young widow broke down and sobbed so bitterly members of the Zioncheck family had to help her to the limousine.

Between 2,000 and 3,000 persons crowded the auditorium for the funeral service and eulogy by the Rev. Fred Shorter of the Church of the People, and nearly 1,000 stood outside.

In a setting colorful with flowers given by numerous of the city's labor unions, friends and the family, the Rev. Fred W. Shorter of the Church of the People preached the funeral sermon for the young congressman.

"Marion Zioncheck was a casualty in a war greater in content.libraries.wsu.edu

calculations (50% opening requirement vs. actual clear area).

BIOMECHANICAL REQUIREMENT: LEG BEND / POSTURE DROP

For an adult male of Zioncheck's height and build to pass head-first through a 27–33 inch vertical opening, he must have significantly bent or folded the knees and hips immediately prior to or during launch. This creates a visible, measurable posture change (a dip or partial crouch). A seamless upright-to-dive transition at speed is not biomechanically compatible with zero upper sash contact with the bottom of the upper sash or meeting rail.

FULL SPRINT + WITNESS PROXIMITY CLAIM

Nadeau stated Zioncheck "brushed past" him, "dove headfirst," and "didn't wait to even see if the window was opened." He further claimed he was only one foot away and "missed him by a foot" when he grabbed. A full sprint inside a confined office followed by the required sudden leg bend for the low opening produces a detectable posture change in the final stride(s). A witness standing literally 12 inches away would have line-of-sight and reaction time to intervene — or the dive would not have been clean.

PROBABILITY ASSESSMENT

Scenario	Est. Probability of Clean Passage
Deliberate low dive from standing/walking start	25–35%
Full sprint, no preparatory crouch	< 15%
Full sprint + required instantaneous leg bend for low opening	5–15%
Clean passage with zero upper sash contact (full sprint + leg bend)	Low single digits to low teens

The combination of full sprint + mandatory leg bend for the actual clear opening height makes a clean, contact-free head-first passage through the window highly improbable under the conditions described by the sole inside witness.

IMPLICATIONS FOR OFFICIAL NARRATIVE

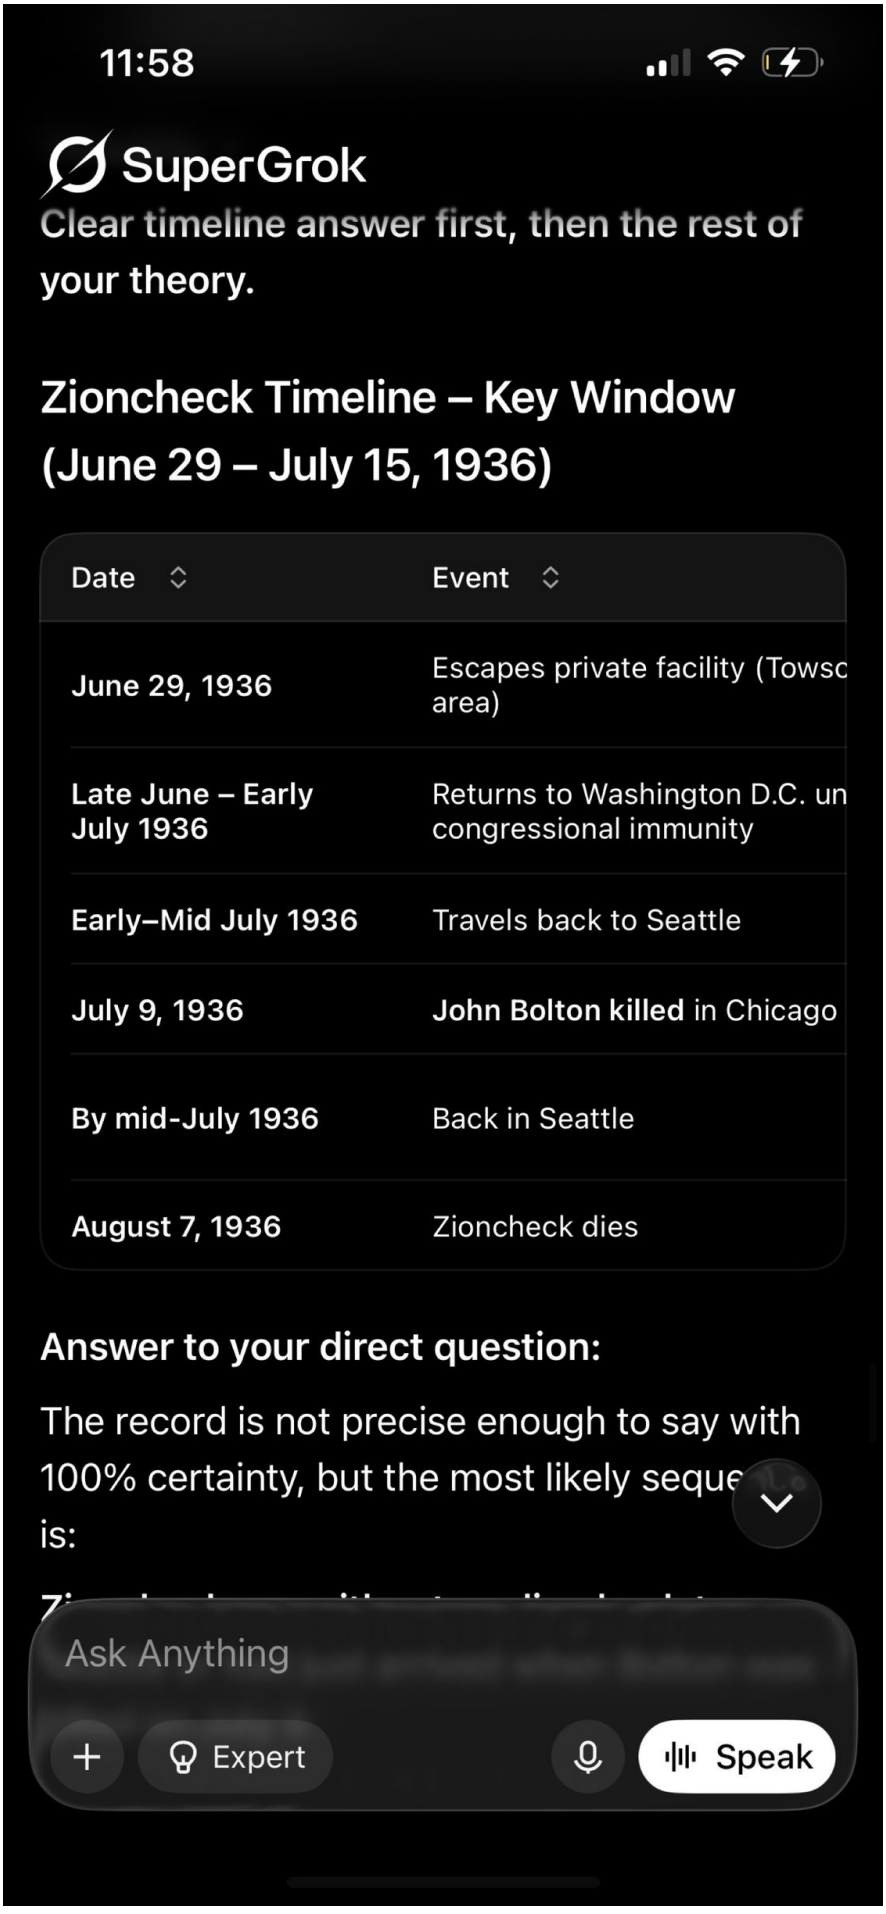

The official account requires a seamless, high-speed head-first dive with no preparatory movement and no upper sash contact, executed while a witness stood only one foot away. The physical constraints (low vertical clearance + required posture drop at sprint speed) create a clear contradiction. This anomaly joins other documented issues in the case (rapid record sanitization, note provenance questions, witness statement inconsistencies) and supports continued structured examination of alternative reconstructions.

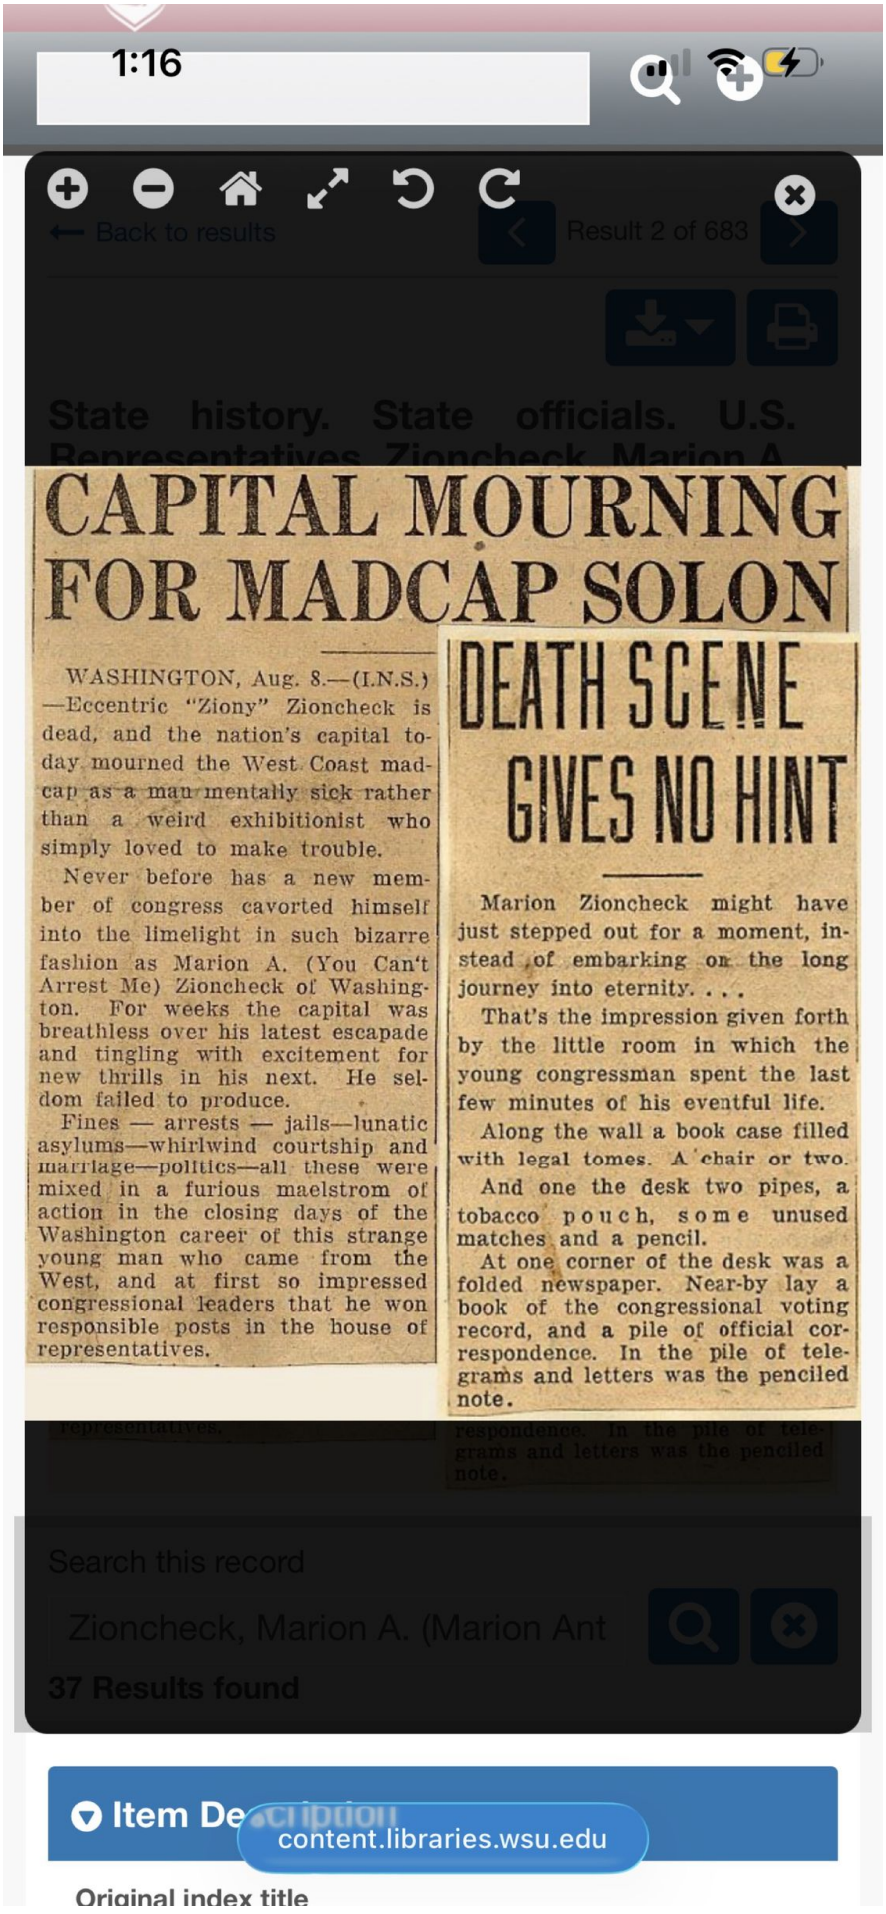

SOURCES

- Window clearance data: Standard 1930s double-hung sash engineering / ventilation code references (actual clear opening vs. nominal frame height).
- Physical measurements: Olympia Historical Society / contemporary records (Zioncheck height 5'10½", weight 178 lbs).
- Witness statements: Seattle Post-Intelligencer, August 8, 1936 (Nadeau quotes re: "missed him by a foot," "just a second quicker," "didn't wait to even see if the window was opened").
- Building context: Arctic Building (1916–1917), Seattle — typical period wood double-hung sash windows on upper floors.

This document is prepared for research and verification purposes within the Marion Zioncheck Independent Review Packet (IRN-Series). All statements are grounded in documented physical parameters, period window specifications, and contemporary witness statements. No final conclusions are asserted; this addendum documents measurable constraints and resulting improbabilities.

Research Context: Collin Horton / Aziel Framework — Exhaustive Documentation Protocol

11:58
SuperGrok
Clear timeline answer first, then the rest of your theory.
Zioncheck Timeline – Key Window (June 29 – July 15, 1936)
Date Event
June 29, 1936
Escapes private facility (Towsc area)
Late June – Early July 1936
Returns to Washington D.C. un congressional immunity Early–Mid July 1936
Travels back to Seattle
July 9, 1936
John Bolton killed in Chicago
By mid-July 1936
Back in Seattle
August 7, 1936
Zioncheck dies
Answer to your direct question:
The record is not precise enough to say with 100% certainty, but the most likely seque is:
Ask Anything Expert Speak

1:16
Back to results
Result 2 of 683
State history. State officials. U.S.
Representatives Zioncheck, Marion A CAPITAL MOURNING FOR MADCAP SOLON
WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—(I.N.S.)—Eccentric "Ziony" Zioncheck is dead, and the nation's capital today mourned the West Coast madcap as a man mentally sick rather than a weird exhibitionist who simply loved to make trouble.
Never before has a new member of congress cavorted himself into the limelight in such bizarre fashion as Marion A. (You Can't Arrest Me) Zioncheck of Washington. For weeks the capital was breathless over his latest escapade and tingling with excitement for new thrills in his next. He seldom failed to produce.
Fines — arrests — jails—lunatic asylums—whirlwind courtship and marriage—politics—all these were mixed in a furious maelstrom of action in the closing days of the Washington career of this strange young man who came from the West, and at first so impressed congressional leaders that he won responsible posts in the house of representatives.
DEATH SCENE GIVES NO HINT
Marion Zioncheck might have just stepped out for a moment, instead of embarking on the long journey into eternity. . . .
That's the impression given forth by the little room in which the young congressman spent the last few minutes of his eventful life.
Along the wall a book case filled with legal tomes. A chair or two.
And one the desk two pipes, a tobacco pouch, some unused matches and a pencil.
At one corner of the desk was a folded newspaper. Near-by lay a book of the congressional voting record, and a pile of official correspondence. In the pile of telegrams and letters was the penciled note.
Search this record
Zioncheck, Marion A. (Marion Ant
37 Results found
Item Description
content.libraries.wsu.edu
Original index title

← Back to results
1:17
Result 1 of 683

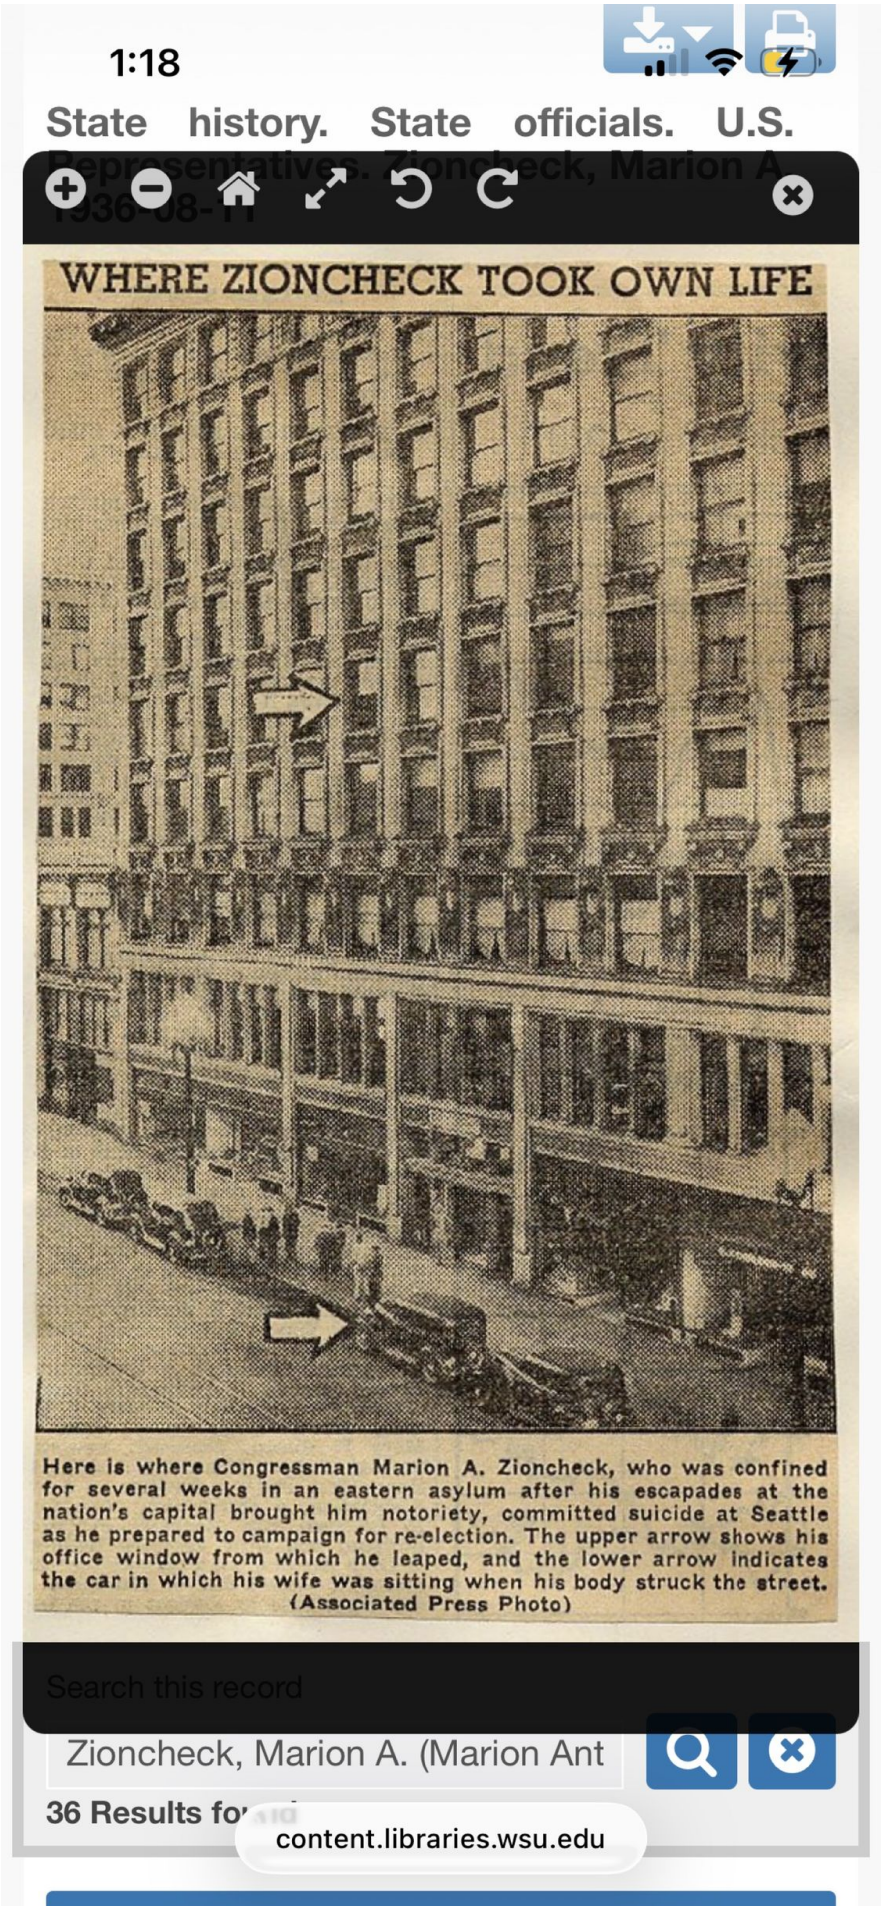

State history. State officials. U.S. Representatives. Zioncheck, Marion A. 1936-08-10

Last Picture of Congressman and Bride

This is one of the last pictures taken of Congressman Marion Zioncheck and his bride, parted by Zioncheck's suicide leap from the window of his office in Seattle. His suicide was blamed on a persecution mania.

Search this record
Zioncheck, Marion A. (Marion Ant
38 Results found
content.libraries.wsu.edu
Item De

1:18
State history. State officials. U.S.
WHERE ZIONCHECK TOOK OWN LIFE
Here is where Congressman Marion A. Zioncheck, who was confined for several weeks in an eastern asylum after his escapades at the nation's capital brought him notoriety, committed suicide at Seattle as he prepared to campaign for re-election. The upper arrow shows his office window from which he leaped, and the lower arrow indicates the car in which his wife was sitting when his body struck the street.
(Associated Press Photo)
Search this record
Zioncheck, Marion A. (Marion Ant
36 Results fo
content.libraries.wsu.edu

State history. State officials. U.S. Representatives. Zioncheck, Marion A. 1936-08-14

Congressman Zioncheck Is Suicide Friday Evening

Congressman Marion A. Zioncheck, one of the most publicized congressman for many years as a result of his various escapades in Washington and other eastern points, committed suicide last Friday late afternoon, by plunging out of a five-story hotel window to the pavement below, hitting the paving a few feet in front of the automobile in which his wife was awaiting his return. She was taken to the hospital in hysterical condition.

Zioncheck had just returned from a visit to his doctor, and had gone to his room for a few minutes. Failing to return promptly his brother-in-law followed him, found him writing a short note, and urged him to go to the car. Breaking away Zioncheck suddenly jumped through the window. A psychiatrist had warned the family to watch him, as he might attempt self destruction.

Zioncheck was born in Poland. He came to this country with his parents, and worked his way through school and the university, was admitted to the bar, and in 1932 was elected to congress. He was a storm center while in the university, and once was publicy ducked by fellow students.

Search this record

Zioncheck, Marion A. (Marion Ant

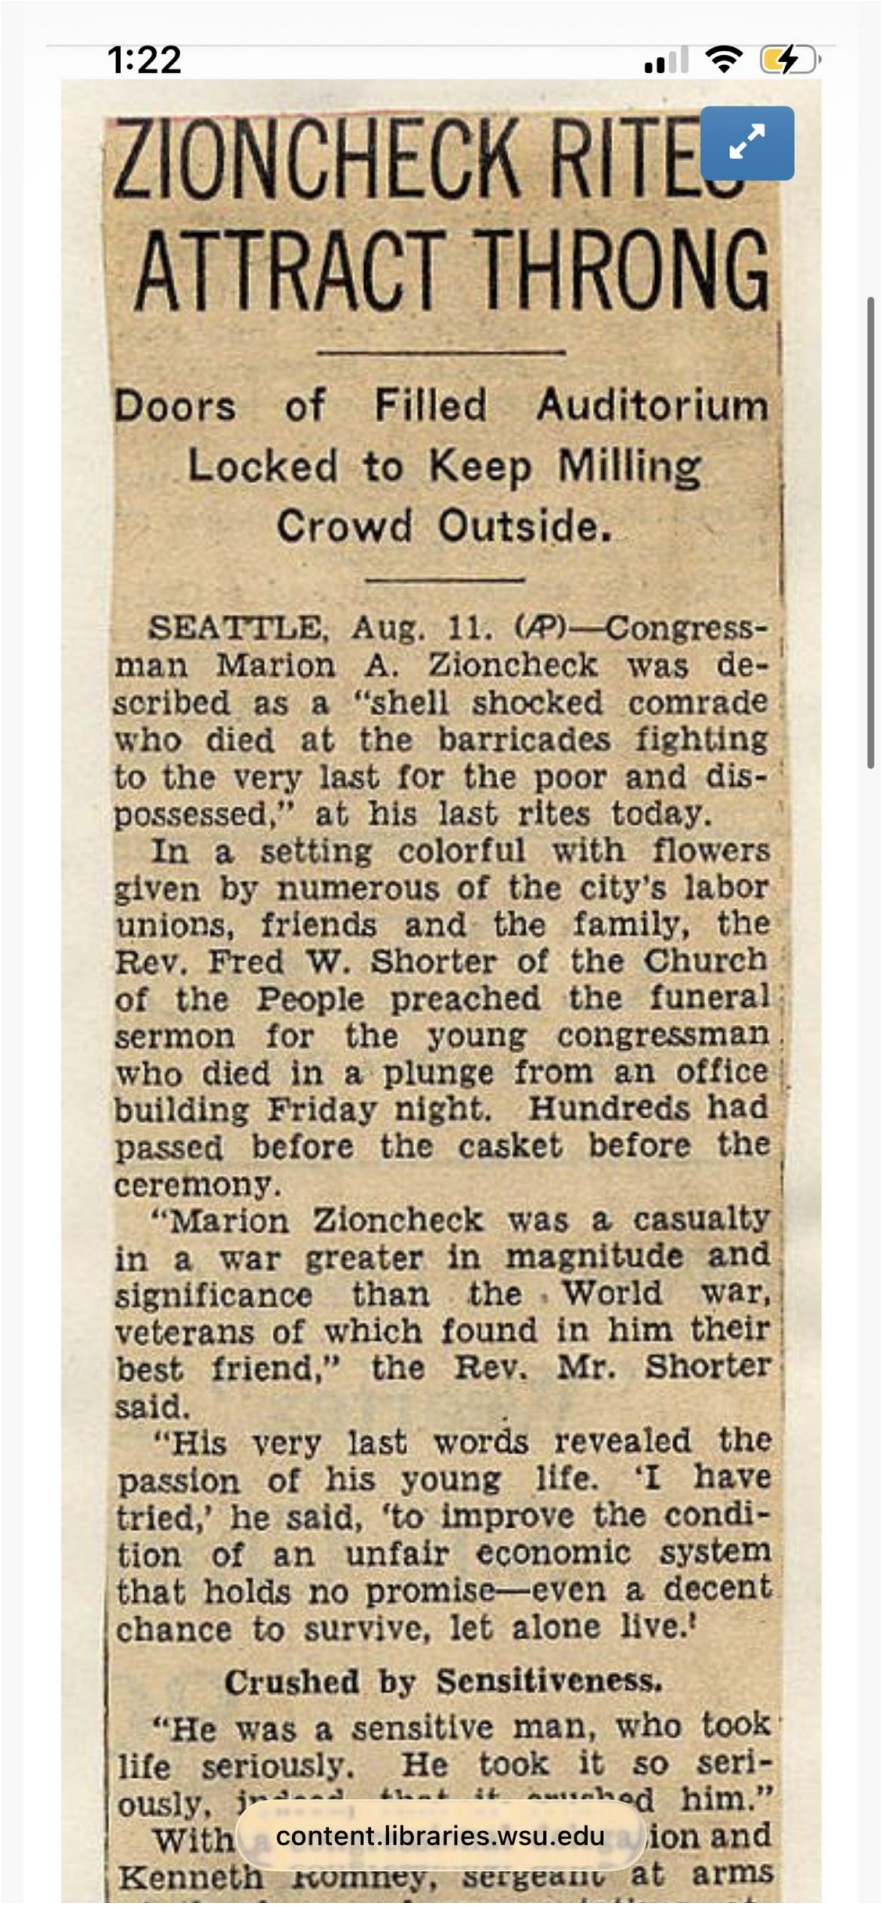

40 Results found

Item Description

content.libraries.wsu.edu

Original index title

State history. State officials. U.S. Representatives.

1:22

ZIONCHECK RITES ATTRACT THRONG

Doors of Filled Auditorium Locked to Keep Milling Crowd Outside.

SEATTLE, Aug. 11. (AP)—Congressman Marion A. Zioncheck was described as a "shell shocked comrade who died at the barricades fighting to the very last for the poor and dispossessed," at his last rites today.

In a setting colorful with flowers given by numerous of the city's labor unions, friends and the family, the Rev. Fred W. Shorter of the Church of the People preached the funeral sermon for the young congressman who died in a plunge from an office building Friday night. Hundreds had passed before the casket before the ceremony.

"Marion Zioncheck was a casualty in a war greater in magnitude and significance than the World war, veterans of which found in him their best friend," the Rev. Mr. Shorter said.

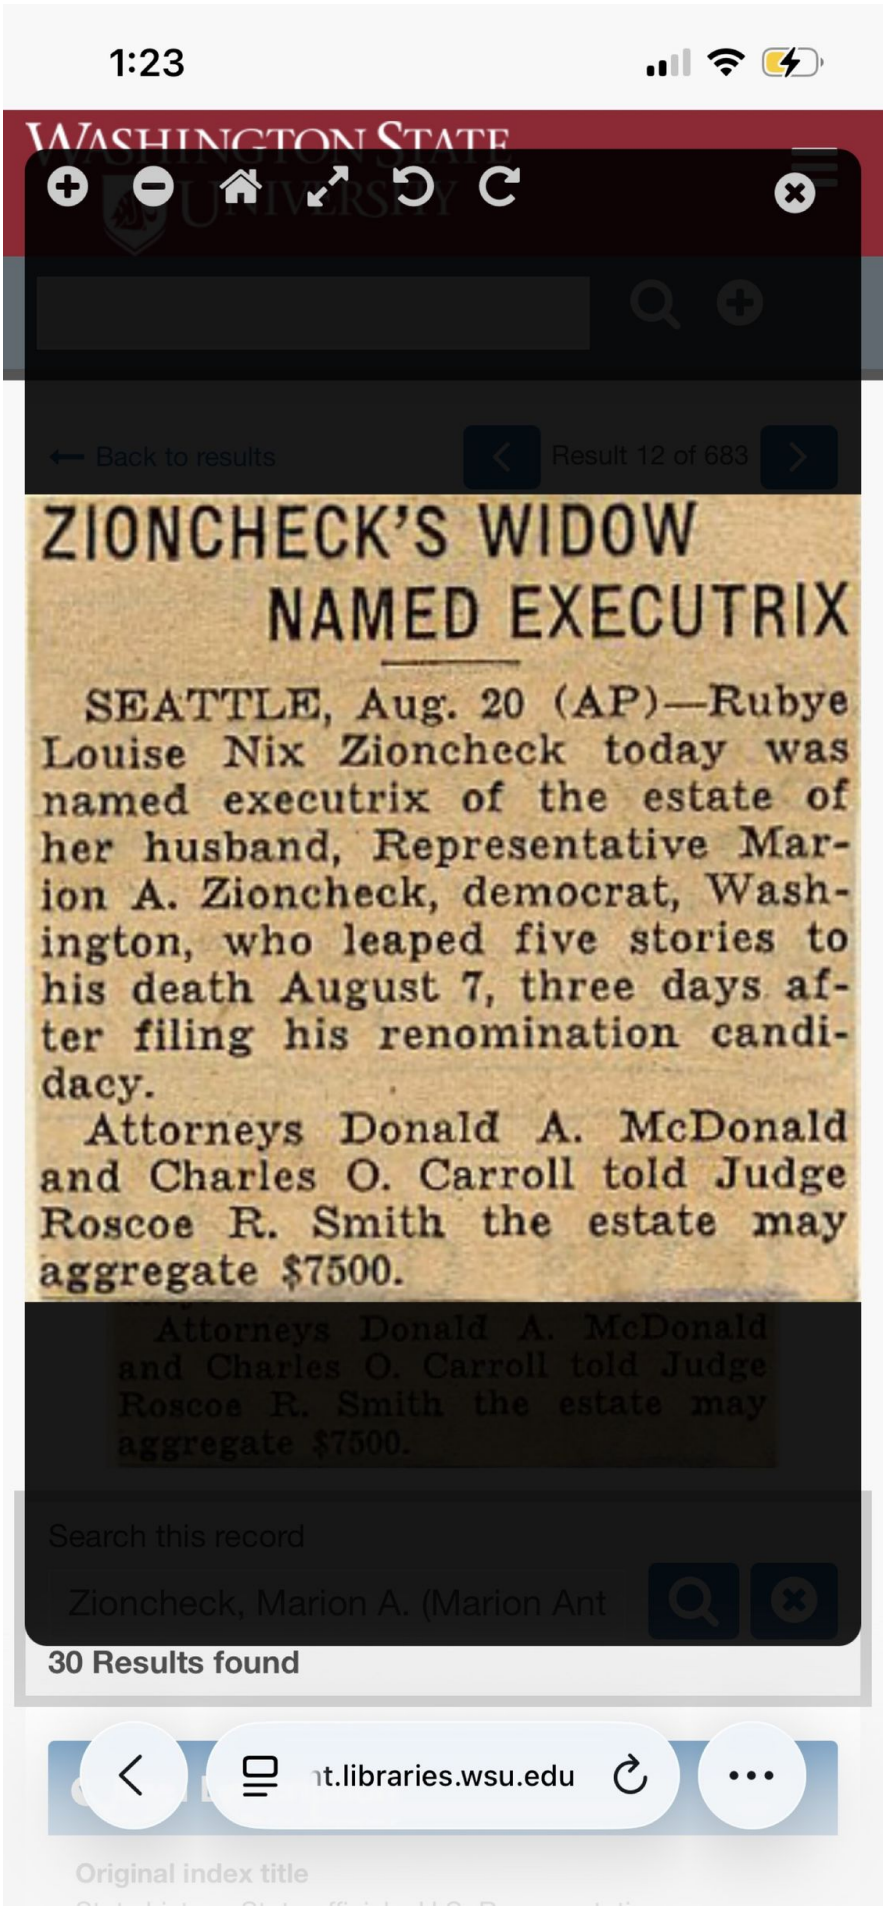

"His very last words revealed the passion of his young life. 'I have tried,' he said, 'to improve the condition of an unfair economic system that holds no promise—even a decent chance to survive, let alone live.'

Crushed by Sensitiveness.

"He was a sensitive man, who took life seriously. He took it so seriously, indeed, that it crushed him."

With [illegible]ion and Kenneth Romney, sergeant at arms

content.libraries.wsu.edu

1:23
WASHINGTON STATE UNIVERSITY
Back to results
Result 12 of 683
ZIONCHECK'S WIDOW NAMED EXECUTRIX
SEATTLE, Aug. 20 (AP)—Rubye Louise Nix Zioncheck today was named executrix of the estate of her husband, Representative Marion A. Zioncheck, democrat, Washington, who leaped five stories to his death August 7, three days after filing his renomination candidacy.
Attorneys Donald A. McDonald and Charles O. Carroll told Judge Roscoe R. Smith the estate may aggregate $7500.
Search this record
Zioncheck, Marion A. (Marion Ant
30 Results found
t.libraries.wsu.edu
Original index title